

Marriages performed by The Reverend George Marquis Miller 1865 to 1905

Following is the record of the marriages performed by the Rev. George Marquis Miller from 1865 to 1905.

The original document was given in trust to The Presbyterian Historical Society in 1973. This transcription was made in 2012 by Bob Hofbauer from a copy of the original document. Care was taken during the transcription process to insure accuracy. However, it needs to be noted that in the 19th century there was little standardization in the spelling of both first and family names. Care was taken to transcribe names exactly as written. What you might believe to be an incorrect spelling may in fact be how that individual chose to spell their name, may be how Rev. Miller chose to spell the name or may be a mistake on the part of the transcriber. It should be noted that Rev. Miller's cursive handwriting used letters, common in German and English during the 19th century, but no longer in use today. It needs to be also noted that the transcription was made from a 40 year old photostatic copy of the original, somewhat yellowed with age and in places difficult to read.

The original document provided information on where the marriage took place and we have included this information. Where it is listed as "at home", this refers to marriages taken place in Rev. Miller's home. Following his retirement on June 27, 1903, Rev. Miller moved to Bryan, Ohio, and you will note that he listed the marriages as "at home in Bryan".

You will quickly note that no marriages were performed in the church. In an article published in 2007, Random History asserted that "Early weddings in America were generally private affairs, held at the home of the parents of the bride or groom. The new bride was usually recognized at Sunday church services following her nuptials, but most weddings were intimate, family affairs. However, as the Industrial Revolution took hold and a definite middle class sprang up, weddings in America would gradually become more and more elaborate."

According to church records, Rev. Miller was installed as pastor of the West Bethesda Presbyterian Church in October, 1856. There is no record of Rev. Miller performing marriages prior to 1865.
